

ABSTRACT

A system and method are provided for providing object change information through a network. The local object persistence system distributes 5 the information regarding the change to the object by the synchronization executor through a communication link. The remote object persistence system that has established the communication link with the local object persistence system obtains the distributed object change information. The object change information is used to update the database and update an object cache for 10 storing the object.